The staff at the Quinnipiac University School of Law Office of Financial Aid realizes that financing a law degree is a significant undertaking. Therefore, we have provided this guide to help you understand your financial aid eligibility and financing options.

Be sure to read all the information you receive from our office and check your Quinnipiac email often, as we will communicate with you via this method. You must reapply for financial aid each year by completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) if you need assistance to pay for law school. We recommend filing your FAFSA by March 15 to ensure timely processing of your financial aid.

Our Federal School Code is 001402.

We encourage you to call, write, or visit our office to address any questions or concerns you may have regarding your financial aid. We will do our best to ensure that your questions are answered and that you have a clear understanding of how the financial aid process works. The address and telephone numbers are listed to the right.

Financial Aid at Quinnipiac Law

Financial aid for Quinnipiac University's law program consists primarily of federal loans and scholarships. Financial aid is available to full-time or part-time students who are registered for at least 6 credits per semester. Students who are enrolled for fewer than 6 credits are not eligible for any federal financial aid, although private loans may be available.

Federal Financial Aid

The U.S. government provides loans for law students. To be eligible, the student must be a U.S. citizen, permanent resident, or eligible non-citizen. Students must go to studentaid.gov to complete the FAFSA.

Loan interest rates are tied to a 10-year Treasury note index plus a statutorily defined add-on and will be established each year for loans where the first disbursement is on or after July 1 through the following June 30. The interest rate will be fixed for that year and apply to the life of that loan. Go to law.qu.edu/loans for more information.

There are two federal loan options for law students: the Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loan and the Federal Graduate Direct PLUS Loan. Students should exhaust the unsubsidized loan first. Both loans are discussed in more detail below.

The Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loan is available for law students who are matriculated in a degree-granting program and enrolled at least half time (6 credits) each semester. The borrower is responsible for all interest that accrues. Interest begins accruing when the loan is disbursed. The interest rate on the Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loan is fixed and is determined annually. Federal Direct Loans are subject to origination fees, which are deducted from loan proceeds prior to the disbursement of funds. Borrowers are responsible for repayment of all such fees. Students receive a one-time, six-month grace period, which starts after they graduate, drop below half-time status, or withdraw.

Unsubsidized Loan Limits

Annual Unsubsidized Total	Aggregate Limit: Graduate and Professional Students
$20,500	$138,500

If you are offered an unsubsidized Federal Direct Loan, you need to accept, decline, or reduce these funds on your financial aid offer. The loan process is initiated by your acceptance of the Federal Direct Loan on your award notification.

The Federal Direct Graduate PLUS Loan is available for law students who are matriculated in a degree-granting program, enrolled at least half time (6 credits) each semester, have completed a FAFSA, have applied for their annual Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loan maximum, and meet the credit criteria.* The maximum loan limit is the cost of attendance minus other aid received. The interest rate on the Federal Direct Graduate PLUS Loan is fixed and is determined annually. Federal Direct Loans are subject to origination fees, which are deducted from loan proceeds prior to the disbursement of funds. Borrowers are responsible for repayment of all such fees. Students will receive a one-time, six-month grace period, which starts after they graduate, drop below half-time status, or withdraw. Go to law.qu.edu/loans for more information.

Students in default on prior student loans are not eligible to receive additional federal loans or other financial aid at Quinnipiac University School of Law. Arrangements must be made with the lender to resolve any defaulted loans before eligibility can be restored.

First-time borrowers must complete and transmit a Master Promissory Note (MPN) to the lender/servicer before funds can be credited to your student account. Visit studentaid.gov/mpn to complete your MPN online. (Students who have a valid MPN on file with their lender do not need to complete a new one.) You will receive a notice of disclosure once the loan is guaranteed indicating the scheduled disbursement dates. Loan proceeds are generally disbursed in two installments through electronic funds transfer. Please note that a separate MPN is required for each type of loan (unsubsidized and Graduate PLUS).

All Quinnipiac Law students borrowing Federal Direct Unsubsidized and Graduate PLUS Loans for the first time are required to complete mandatory loan entrance counseling, which highlights your rights and responsibilities as a borrower. The counseling must be completed prior to the university receiving loan funds. Go to law.qu.edu/entrance to complete the counseling online.

The Federal Work-Study Program is a need-based program that provides funding for jobs for law students, allowing them to earn money to help pay educational expenses. This program encourages students to pursue community service-type employment or work related to their course of study. The School of Law uses the majority of its allocation of funds for summer legal employment for students who are employed off campus in nonprofit organizations or public agencies. Information and applications are available to all law students early in the spring semester each year. Limited funds are available during the school year for students working in the law library.

Private Loan Funding

In addition to the Federal Direct Loan programs, private educational loans are available for law students. Borrower eligibility, co-signer requirements, interest rates, maximum loan levels, and repayment options vary according to the program. Go to law.qu.edu/loans for more information. You may consult directly with each lender for specific terms and eligibility.

Students who are enrolled less than half time, or who do not meet federal eligibility requirements, may apply for private loan funding through select programs.

Scholarships

Merit Scholarships

All applicants who are offered admission receive automatic merit scholarship consideration. Students whose admissions qualifications demonstrate a potential for superior academic performance in law school will receive scholarship notification with their acceptance from the Office of Admissions. Scholarships range in amount and are non-negotiable. The number and amount of scholarships awarded each year to entering students is based on the availability of institutional resources. All scholarships are renewable to students in good academic standing.

Named/Endowed Scholarships

Several individual donors and law firms have established scholarships to be awarded once a year by the Office of Financial Aid to students based on academic excellence, interest in specific areas of law, and/or financial need. The number of awards and the amounts vary yearly based on the interest income generated from the endowment. A limited number of students are selected each year. These awards are typically for second, third, and fourth-year students.

Outside Scholarships

Scholarships and grants can be awarded to outstanding students by organizations other than the School of Law. Corporations; foundations; employers; state, national, and professional associations; civic organizations; and clubs have their own application and selection criteria for awarding private funds. The School of Law encourages all students to research and apply for outside scholarships for which they may be eligible. To assist you, we will list any available scholarships in the Docket, our internal school newsletter, as we are notified of them. We also recommend the free scholarship web resources listed on page 11 of this guide. Students are responsible for all application, renewal, and disbursement paperwork.

Federal regulations require that the Office of Financial Aid coordinates all sources of funding to ensure that you are not receiving any aid for which you may not be eligible or that exceeds your cost of attendance. For this reason, you are required to notify the Office of Financial Aid of any outside resource you will be receiving that is not already listed on your financial aid offer.

Your Financial Aid Offer

Your financial aid offer contains information regarding your cost of attendance, the types of aid for which you are eligible, and the amount awarded with a breakdown of the amounts by semester—fall, spring, and summer. The amounts offered are contingent upon your actual enrollment, continuing attendance, satisfactory academic progress (please see pages 6–8 of this guide), and verification of information on the FAFSA, if required. Your offer letter is available via Self-Service, and you will receive notice via email with instructions on how to access it.

After you receive your financial aid offer, you need to accept, decline, or reduce your offer where applicable, and submit your response within 15 days of receipt. If you are a first-time borrower, you will be asked to complete loan entrance counseling and a Direct Loan Master Promissory Note (MPN).

Revised Offers

Revisions to a financial aid offer may be necessary due to a change in circumstances, such as the receipt of an outside scholarship, employee tuition assistance, or changes in budget items such as enrollment status or housing plans. Any change to your financial aid offer will be reflected in a revised offer. Revisions are sent throughout the year, as necessary, and must be submitted within 15 days of receipt. Be aware that only aid you have accepted on your financial aid offer will be credited to your student account. It is your responsibility to notify the Quinnipiac Law Office of Financial Aid in writing immediately if you receive additional funding from an outside source or change your enrollment or housing status.

How Financial Need Is Determined

The Office of Financial Aid determines your need for financial assistance utilizing the following formula:

Your cost of attendance (COA) minus (-) your student aid index (SAI) = need

Your SAI (formerly referred to as your EFC or Estimated Financial Contribution) is determined by the information provided on the FAFSA. It is important to note that in law school, meeting 100 percent of your need is very difficult. Therefore, to help pay for their balance, students may elect to borrow funds or apply for the university's payment plan.

Cost of Attendance

Your cost of attendance is based on the information you provided on your FAFSA, your housing plans, and your enrollment status. Go to law.qu.edu/costs for more cost information. The cost of attendance represents both an estimate of costs as well as the maximum amount of financial aid that you may receive during the academic year.

There are two categories of costs in your cost of attendance budget: direct costs and indirect costs.

1. Direct costs are those for which you receive a billing statement from the Quinnipiac University One Stop office. Direct costs include items such as tuition, student fees, course fees, and applicable registration fees.
2. Indirect costs are expenses you may incur for items such as books, supplies, transportation expenses, and living expenses. They are not billed for by the university. Estimates for these items are used when calculating financial aid eligibility. Your actual expenses may be greater or less than these estimates.

Financial aid budgets do not allow for family costs and are based on expenses for the student only. We realize that based upon personal lifestyle, the cost of books, supplies, and living expenses will vary from student to student. To remain fair and equitable to all financial aid recipients, the Office of Financial Aid uses a standard budget for books and supplies and for living expenses for either off campus or living at home. We do not adjust these standard budgets based upon actual amounts spent on transportation, books and supplies, or living expenses. The off-campus budget reflects the expectation that you will have at least one roommate. Living expense figures are reviewed and updated annually and are based on estimates provided by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and Consumer Price Index, and student survey results. Under limited circumstances, the Office of Financial Aid may make an adjustment to your cost of attendance upon appeal. Please put your request in writing and email it to our office.

It is important to remember that this is a 9-month budget intended to support you through the school year and does not represent a 12-month budget.

Helping You Manage the Cost of Your Law School Education

Quinnipiac offers payment plans, which allow you to register for courses and pay in installments. A nominal installment fee is charged. Go to qu.edu/onestop for more information. (The plans are not available to students during the summer term.)

Many companies provide education benefits to employees in the form of tuition reimbursement. Additionally, Quinnipiac University has arrangements with a number of companies to accept a letter of authorization from the employer in lieu of full or partial payment at registration. Check with your employer about any education benefits that may be available to you.

Various education assistance programs administered by the Department of Veterans Affairs provide benefits to veterans, service members, and some dependents of veterans wishing to pursue an education. Quinnipiac University is a participant in the Yellow Ribbon Program. More information is available at gibill.va.gov, or contact Jason Burke, Quinnipiac's executive director of veteran and military affairs, at 203-582-8867.

Satisfactory Academic Progress*

Law students who wish to receive assistance through any federal, state or institutionally supported grant, loan or work program must comply with the following Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) standards as determined by Quinnipiac University School of Law.

SAP measures both the quality and the rate of progress toward the Juris Doctor degree. For this policy, the academic year includes the fall and spring semesters as well as the preceding summer. Students enrolled in joint degree programs must meet the SAP guidelines for both programs. All periods of enrollment count towards assessing progress, whether or not a student received Title IV funds. Students who fail to comply are not eligible for financial aid.

Students beginning in Fall 2023 or prior should see law.qu.edu/forms for the appropriate Satisfactory Academic Progress policy.*

For students in joint degree programs, please see law.qu.edu/forms for additional details.*

SAP is measured once per year at the end of the spring semester for all active students beginning in the Fall 2024 semester or later using the factors below:

Qualitative Measurement (GPA) – The quality of a student’s academic work.

All law students must maintain a cumulative grade point average (GPA) of at least 2.00 at the end of the student’s first academic year, a 2.10 for students attempting 36 credits or more, and a 2.20 for a student with 54 attempted credits or more. GPAs will be calculated to 3 decimal points and will not be rounded. Transfer credits and courses with grades of “Pass” do not factor into the grade point average. Courses with grades of “Fail” will factor into the grade point average as they are counted as 0 in the calculation. Repeated courses will be counted in GPA in addition to the original grade. Incomplete and withdrawn classes do not have an effect on the GPA.

Quantitative Measurement (Pace) – The rate of a student’s progress toward a degree. Successful completion measures credits earned, not credits attempted.

Students must successfully complete 67% of the coursework attempted each academic year (summer, fall, and spring).

- Courses with a grade of “Pass” are counted as earned credits; courses with a grade of “Fail” are considered as attempted but not earned.
- Incomplete and withdrawn courses are counted as attempted but not earned.
- Audited credits and those that are dropped during the published add/drop periods are not considered attempted credits.
- Transfer credits are accepted as both attempted and earned.
- In Progress grades are not counted as attempted or earned.
- Repeated courses are included as attempted courses.

Regardless of academic standing, students may not receive financial aid for more than 150% of their published program length. Each term you are enrolled in school will count toward the 150% calculation even for terms when you do not receive financial aid. For example, the JD program requires 86 credit hours x 1.5, making 129 the maximum allowable credit hours attempted to qualify for financial aid.

Students whose performance or progress does not meet the required standards will be notified by the Director of Financial Aid via email and will be considered ineligible for aid, including federal, state, institutional, and most private loans.

PLEASE NOTE: Both the qualitative and quantitative measurements indicate the requirements for SAP for financial aid purposes and may not reflect the law school’s required cumulative grade point average and the recommended number of credits to be taken each semester according to the academic catalog.

Implementation of the Satisfactory Academic Progress Policy

Since summer enrollment begins prior to SAP being reviewed, summer financial aid will be based on the student's academic progress at the time of the award. If it is subsequently determined that the student was not maintaining SAP, all undisbursed aid will be cancelled. Notice regarding SAP will be given:

- At the end of June for students with a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) on file for the upcoming year.
- Within three weeks of a FAFSA being on file for students who did not have a FAFSA on file when SAP was reviewed. Please notify the Office of Financial Aid if you file your FAFSA after the beginning of the semester.

Appeal Process

Students may appeal their loss of aid based on extenuating circumstances (death, divorce, illness, etc.). Appeals must be submitted in writing to the Director of Financial Aid and the Associate Dean of Academics and will be reviewed by the Academic Status Committee. Appeals should include documentation of the extenuating circumstances, explain what has changed and describe how the student plans to make satisfactory academic progress in the future. If the appeal includes information falling under Title IX of the Higher Education Act of 1972, the committee is required to disclose it to the University Title IX coordinator to determine eligibility for financial aid. Additional appeals will not be considered.

Visit qu.edu/student-life/diversity-and-inclusion/title-ix/ to review the Title IX policy.

- Appeal Granted: If an appeal is granted, the student will be placed on financial aid probation for one semester and an academic plan will be prescribed for the student to follow. The student's academic progress will be reviewed at the end of the probationary semester and they must have met the conditions of the academic plan to receive financial aid moving forward. A student who fails to meet these conditions will lose eligibility for financial aid. Additional appeals will not be considered.
- No Appeal/Appeal Denied: Students who do not appeal or whose appeal is denied will not regain financial aid eligibility until all the required SAP standards are met. Reinstatement of financial aid is not automatic and a subsequent review of a student's progress is done only at the request of the student. Summer courses completed after SAP is determined may be considered in repairing deficiencies.

One Stop and Billing

One Stop manages the cashiering, billing, collection, student account services, and refund notifications. Students can pay bills, request refunds, obtain payment plan information, and seek clarification related to Quinnipiac charges from the staff in this office. Students can access an online billing statement via Self-Service at selfservice.quinnipiac.edu/student prior to each semester and are expected to meet their financial obligations when they are due.

For financial aid recipients, Federal Direct Unsubsidized and Graduate PLUS Loans are generally credited to student accounts in two equal disbursements. Private loan borrowers receive a credit on their account when the lender has disbursed the loan. Loans are credited to student billing accounts on the first day of classes each semester, provided the student meets the award and enrollment conditions. Students have the right to cancel a portion of their entire loan at any time during the process. When applicable, if loan amounts exceed actual tuition and fee charges, One Stop will process a refund for student living and other education-related expenses. Students can sign up to have their refunds directly deposited into their personal accounts.

Go to qu.edu/onestop for more information.

Students who owe a tuition balance on their account will not be permitted to register for a subsequent semester.

Law School Refund Policy

Prior to the Start of Classes

A new student who has rendered either of their tuition deposits and then withdraws from the university will forfeit their deposits. Any balance on the account, less financial aid, will be refunded. Returning students, withdrawing prior to the start of classes, will receive a full refund.

After the Start of Classes

Students who withdraw from any of their classes after the published “last day for late registration/schedule changes” will not be entitled to any adjustment of their charges for tuition and fees.

Students who affect a complete withdrawal or leave of absence from the university, regardless of the reason (including medical), will be granted a prorated refund of tuition and fees, less an administrative fee of $100. Late fees are nonrefundable in total or in proration.

Prorated refunds are computed on the following basis:

Fall and Spring Terms

Withdrawal	First week	80%
Withdrawal	Second week	60%
Withdrawal	Third week	40%
Withdrawal	Fourth week	20%
Withdrawal	After the fourth week	0%

Summer Terms

Withdrawal	First week	80%
Withdrawal	Second week	50%
Withdrawal	Third week	30%
Withdrawal	Fourth week	0%

The date of withdrawal for purposes of calculating the refund is the date on which the student makes written application to the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs’ office for withdrawal. No retroactive withdrawals are permitted for refund purposes. The refund schedule listed above is applied regardless of the reason for withdrawal, including medical reasons.

Dismissals and Suspensions

A student who is either dismissed or suspended by the university for any reason, during either academic semester, will receive a refund based on the applicable refund percentage in effect at the time of the student’s dismissal or suspension (first four weeks). After the fourth academic week, the refund policy as stated above will be applied. In addition, a student who is dismissed or suspended will be charged all administrative fees and other fees as prescribed.

Payment Plan

Students using the university’s payment plan who withdraw during the refund period (first four weeks) should note that their forfeiture is computed on the full amount charged regarding tuition and fees, and not on the amount remitted via the payment plan. In addition, the $75 service charge for using the payment plan also will be included in the list of charges. After the fourth week, the balance remaining on the installment plan will be due and payable on the date of withdrawal.

Return of Title IV Funds

In addition to the university’s refund policy that prorates tuition charges during the first four weeks of the semester, the university is required to return to the federal government that portion of federal aid that is unearned. Title IV funds are based on a payment period or term, and funds must be returned in the following order:

1. Federal Direct Unsubsidized Loans
2. Federal PLUS Loans

PLEASE NOTE: It is important to understand that if a student’s withdrawal date is on or before the completion of 60 percent of the semester, “unearned aid” will result. If a student has received a refund as a result of aid applied to their account prior to their withdrawal date, the student will have a balance due the university on their student account. For more complete information, go to qu.edu/refundpolicy and click on School of Law Policies.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q/ Do I have to reapply for financial aid every year?

A/ Yes. You will need to file your FAFSA no sooner than October 1, and we recommend filing by March 15 each year to ensure timely awards.

Q/ I don't remember filling out "Form XYZ" last year; why do I have to do it this year?

A/ The foundation of your financial aid application—the FAFSA—will not change from year to year. However, based on verification selection, changing requirements and regulations, differences in your financial situation, or other factors, the Office of Financial Aid may request appropriate documentation. This may change from year to year, so it is essential to read all correspondence and requests from the Office of Financial Aid and respond in a timely manner.

Q/ What do I do if I borrowed a Federal Loan as an undergraduate?

A/ You must notify your lender of your return to school to initiate a loan deferment. The deferment process will halt your loan repayment obligation while you are enrolled at least half time (6 credits). You may be required to complete deferment paperwork and, in some cases, submit that paperwork to the law registrar for processing.

Q/ How do I determine the additional amount of funds I can borrow in a Federal Graduate PLUS or private educational loan?

A/ You may borrow up to the cost of attendance minus any other aid received. If your COA equals the amount of aid on your financial aid offer, then you cannot borrow an additional loan. If your COA is larger than the amount of aid on your financial aid offer, then you can borrow up to the difference. Please feel free to contact our office with any questions.

Q/ If I already started a semester, may I still apply for financial aid?

A/ Yes, you may apply for financial aid once a semester has started. Keep in mind that all paperwork must be complete, your FAFSA results received by the university, and your Federal Direct Loan originated prior to the last date of enrollment for the academic period.

Q/ Do I have to accept the full amount of the loan presented on my financial aid offer?

A/ No, you may accept all, part, or none of the loan offered in Self-Service. Just indicate the amount you wish to borrow on your financial aid offer response. For example: You are awarded $10,250 for the fall semester and $10,250 for the spring semester, but you need to borrow only $3,000 per semester. Replace the $10,250 with $3,000 for each semester, accept the offer, and submit the response.

Q/ Do I need to report my parents' income and asset information on the FAFSA?

A/ As a law student, you are considered independent and will not need to report parental information on the FAFSA.

Q/ How are my Federal Direct Loan funds credited to my account?

A/ Once you have completed your Federal Direct Master Promissory Note and entrance counseling, your funds will be disbursed to the university in two equal installments (minus applicable fees) via electronic funds transfer typically on the first day of class. Loan proceeds are applied to your account balance. If funds are remaining after the account is paid, the One Stop office will issue a refund, within 14 calendar days, by either directly depositing the funds into your personal account or mailing a check to your address on file. It is imperative that you make financial arrangements with your landlord and/or creditors in advance of the start of class. Refunds, in excess of your institutional charges, will be issued at the time your account is in a credit balance position, which is often well into the semester. We will make every effort to expedite your financial aid; however, please remember this is the busiest time of year for us and your lender, so please try to be as timely as possible when submitting your paperwork.

Q/ What are my repayment options for Federal Graduate PLUS Loans after graduation?

A/ You may elect to defer your payments for six months; however, interest will continue to accrue. Beyond that, you should contact your lender to discuss options.

Q/ Can I borrow educational loans for relocation expenses?

A/ No, you will need to budget for these expenses using your own resources. The nine-month cost of attendance budget does not include your living expenses for the summer or the cost of relocating.

Q/ I would like to live alone. Can I get an increase to my cost of attendance?

A/ Our academic year budget reflects the expectation that you will have at least one roommate and is not increased if you choose to live alone. You will need to budget for the additional expenses using your own resources. See law.qu.edu/costs for more information on how our cost of attendance is calculated.

Q/ When will I receive my financial aid offer each year?

A/ Entering law students who have been accepted into the law program and completed their FAFSA will begin receiving financial aid offers in March. Current law students who have completed their financial aid application will begin receiving financial aid offers in late June, after the spring semester grades have been posted and GPAs have been calculated.
